REFERENCE CARD

FOR THE APPLE IIe/IIc/IIc Plus/IIgs

INTRODUCTION

For use with Brøderbund's VCR Companion,™ VCR Companion Film Library Disk One provides you with new and exciting script items (graphic elements) to add to your video scripts. For quick reference, we have depicted a sample of each of the fonts, borders, background pictures, patterns, and icons, and animations and listed them by name.

GETTING STARTED

VCR Companion Film Library is very easy to use. All you need is VCR Companion to get started. You will be using VCR Companion in exactly the same way you have before. Just start up the program and follow the on-screen prompts. If you have any questions concerning the use of VCR Companion, simply refer to our VCR Companion manual for guidance.

INSTALLING FILM LIBRARY ON A HARD DISK

VCR Companion Film Library can be installed on a hard disk using any standard ProDOS copy program. If you have a copy program, refer to that program's user's guide for hard disk installation instructions.

USING THE FILM LIBRARY

Create your video script in the same way you have before using VCR Companion. If you decide to use one of the Film Library's fonts, borders, background pictures, patterns and icons, or animations, simply go into the Add menu from the Edit Script menu and select the type of element (Background, Border, Text, etc.) you wish to add to your script. Once you get to the appropriate Selection menu, which lists all the names of the elements available on VCR Companion, select "From Other Disk" from the bottom of the Selection menu. Then put the Film Library disk in one of your disk drives (if you have one drive, replace the VCR Companion disk with the Film Library disk) and select the drive which contains the Film Library from the drive selection menu. A different Edit Script screen will now appear. You will see a listing of the graphic elements available on the Film Library disk. (Note: If you do not see the Film Library listing, simply select "Change Disk" and you will be prompted to select the appropriate data disk.) Once you see the names of the elements that are available, select the one you want to use. You will then be returned to the Edit Script menu and your new graphic element will be displayed in your script.

By mixing and matching the Film Library's dynamic graphic elements with the ones available on VCR Companion, you will be able to generate eye-catching titles, credits, animations, intermissions and special effects for your videotape productions, as well as create FilmDisks and video presentations that will impress your family, friends, teachers and customers!
